

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to convey my genuine desire to seek a working student role at Volkswagen Group Retail Dresden. My cover letter is enclosed, detailing my academic background, professional experiences, and goals.

My interest in electronics began at a young age when I worked at my uncle's television repair shop. This initial exposure ignited a passion that has driven me to comprehend the complexities of electronic systems and to pursue a career in this field.

I completed my undergraduate studies in Electronics Engineering at KIIT University, achieving a CGPA of 1.7/4.0. Throughout my academic career, I engaged in various topics, including analog and digital electronics, microprocessors and microcontrollers, and semiconductor devices. My participation in seminars, workshops, and hackathons further enhanced my practical skills and understanding of these subjects.

Following graduation, I embarked on a rewarding career with Bosch India, a renowned automotive company, where I gained experience in embedded systems and software development. My time at Bosch provided essential hands-on experience, allowing me to bridge the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical application. Notably, I led initiatives focused on automotive powertrain systems, successfully integrating industry standards such as AUTOSAR into MATLAB Simulink frameworks.

In addition to my academic and professional pursuits, I am deeply committed to giving back to society. I have actively participated in extracurricular activities, including volunteering for non-governmental organizations (NGOs) that support underprivileged communities. My involvement in sports events and coding challenges reflects my diverse interests and well-rounded personality.

I am eager to seize this opportunity and contribute meaningfully to Volkswagen's goals. Thank you for considering my application. I would be delighted to discuss how my academic and professional background aligns with this opportunity and how I may contribute to Volkswagen Group Retail Dresden's thriving community.
